3 Alabama at No.

Prediction: Tennessee +7.

8 Oklahoma State at No.

Oklahoma State's defensive line is good enough to cause problems for a shaky TCU offensive line, especially against the tackles.

LSU's defense looks better on paper, ranking 29th nationally in total defense as opposed to Florida's 99th ranking, but that's misleading as the Tigers surrendered 438 yards against lowly Auburn two weeks ago before giving up 502 yards at home against Tennessee last week.

Utah will play better than it did against UCLA, but things aren't quite clicking at the championship level we expected coming into the season.

10 Penn State at No.

TikTok is super popular because it offers something no other social media platform offers — the delivery of an ever-changing "feed" of content that is almost exclusively user generated and focused on entertaining people.

As soon as the app opens, it plays videos in succession, giving users a constant stream of changing, engaging content. This makes TikTok fun and keeps people on the platform longer.

TikTok creators will often create video content that is very personal to specific areas (for example, videos on London slang), and local videos leverage specific hashtags to drive trends. The trending hashtags suggest popular topics for other creators to make more videos. In this way, the app leverages local trends and generates viral content. TikTok is therefore local and global, at the same time, making the most of both types of audiences.
