Is the dream of legalizing California sports betting completely lost? There are a few lawmakers in the Golden State still trying to make California online sports betting a reality.

Opposition from local tribes and lobby groups have made it increasingly difficult for California sports betting legislation to gain any kind of traction, and now 2024 is the absolute earliest that California sports betting could get the green light.

Since Californians voted against two sports betting bills in November 2022, it's anyone's guess when sports betting in California could get another chance at being legalized.

If San Francisco is listed as a -200 favorite against Oakland, that means that you'd need to bet $200 on San Francisco to return $100 on that side to win. Futures bets let you wager on sports outcomes that will take place months from now.
