Rhode Island Sports Betting Online sports betting and retail sportsbooks are legal in Rhode Island.

Three mainstream horse racing betting sites operate legally in Rhode Island and offer welcome bonuses to all new customers:

The 2019 state budget unveiled in January of 2018 included a surprise: the budget included $23.

As a result, Rhode Island bettors missed out on the opportunity to bet with major operators like DraftKings and FanDuel.

He came back with the opinion that yes, fantasy sports sites are legal, but he also encouraged lawmakers to enact legislation to regulate and tax the industry.

This statement directly contradicted the Attorney General's previous opinion, but it was enough to cause lawmakers to back off their attempts to pass fantasy sports legislation.

The law also granted Rhode Island the right to enter multi-state gaming compacts (think MSIGA) to share tables and player pools with licensed poker sites in other states.

Currently, Rhode Island iLottery offers instant win games and keno in the same formats offered in-person at retailers.
