New Jersey, Nevada and Delaware quickly got on board and legalized online casino games, online poker or both provided organizations seeking to organize such games are properly licensed and approved. Legal sports betting has expanded as well thanks to a 2018 Supreme Court decision striking down the federal prohibition.

These are the big picture laws that have an impact across all fifty states. Some states were granted exemptions for limited forms of betting, but overall it was PASPA that granted Nevada a virtual monopoly over sports betting. Some states have since chosen to legalize, regulate, and tax sports betting. This all goes to explain why we have a page dedicated to the betting laws of every US state.

Some states expressly prohibit horse racing betting in all its forms, but most either passively allow the activity or have laws on the books to regulate in-person and online horse racing betting.
