Twitterati have come out all guns blazing at reports of Brahmastra's box office collection. A section of the social media is questioning the astounding numbers the filmmakers and trade analysts have reported. There is also another section that is commending the film for overcoming the boycott calls to make the said numbers.

Ranbir Kapoor-Alia Bhatt starrer Brahmastra Part One: Shiva, the first of the planned trilogy, reportedly made Rs 31.5 crore on Friday, Rs 37.5 crore on Saturday, Rs 39.5 crore on Sunday, and Rs 14.50 crore to Rs 16.50 crore in the domestic box office, taking the total to around Rs 120 crore.

Trade analyst Sumit Kadel had said that, globally, the movie made Rs 75 crore on Friday, Rs 85 crore on Saturday, and Rs 65 crore on Sunday, taking the gross total collection to Rs 225 crore worldwide in the first weekend.

The collections were questioned by many netizens, considering the reviews for Brahmastra were deeply divided. The movie received flak for its dialogues, overuse of VFX, Alia Bhatt's flat character, above most things.

It was then only a matter of time before someone questioned Brahmastra's box office collections. In fact, one of the first people to question the collection was Kangana Ranaut, who has, in the past, had a public spat with Karan Johar, producer of the film, and has taken digs at Alia Bhatt on multiple occasions.

"OK released on Friday and on Sunday it's a big hit already and by the way made huge profits also... In 250 crore (that also a fake figure) 650 crore b udget (including VFX) just because Prime Focus is co-producer doesn't mean VFX doesn't have any cost... yeh Karan Johar mathematician ka maths... humko bhi seekhna hai," she said on an Instagram story.

Meanwhile, brokerages told Business Today that footfall has been lower than pre-

COVID levels. Karan Taurani, SVP, Elara Capital said that Brahmastra's occup ancy is lower than Kabir Singh or War. But not only Brahmastra, SS Rajamouli's blockbuster hit RRR starring Jr NTR and Ram Charan, saw lower occupancy than Baahubali.
