Anytime someone purchases the product or service from the review, the blogger makes a commission.

For this step you'll need to choose a hosting platform, a content management system like WordPress, and a website theme.

Spencer from NichePursuits put together an ultimate guide to learn how to build a niche website here.

If you don't know what specific programs you want to promote, try googling "your niche affiliate program".

Review and approval times for affiliate programs varies. Some are instant, some takes a few days, and some can take a few weeks or longer.

A good review should give your honest opinion and be as unbiased as possible, highlight the benefits, showcase the pros and cons, and be truly helpful for the reader.

If you're not sure what to include in a product review blog post, think about what you look for when learning about a product.
