If you are reading this article because you are considering purchasing Google Reviews for your business, we will save you the trouble of reading the rest with a quick answer don't do it.

If you want to learn more about why buying Google Reviews is illegal and in the long run will hurt your reputation, read on.

Don't ask for a positive review. This is also a form of manipulating the system. Asking for a review means letting your client or customer write about their experience and be open to it being good or bad. If you do not feel that you will get a good review then don't ask.

When sending a request for a review it is important to give the person the direct link to leave a review quickly and fast. We live in a time when everyone is very busy. The easier you make it for your clients and customers to leave a review the more likely they will do it.
