Against the spread betting is extremely popular in football and that's one of the main reasons why it's one of the most popular college football picks on our site.

Pickswise is the home of all things college football and that doesn't stop when the playoffs come around.

We highlight the best bets, key stats, trends, team news, and ultimate who we have as our College Football Playoff picks.

All of our NCAAF picks are absolutely free, all season long.

You can find every NCAAF pick throughout the season right here on the NCAAF Picks page, or check out the NCAAF Parlays, or NCAAF Computer Picks pages for even more insight into betting better on NCAA Football this week.

If you win money betting on the Super Bowl this weekend, don't spend it all at once - you'll have to pay taxes on those earnings.

Typically, when you win $600 or more, gambling businesses will send you and the IRS tax forms, commonly a W-2G, but sometimes a 1099-MISC for raffle or sweepstakes prizes.

The IRS can use these forms to verify your total income when it processes your tax return.

If the winnings are $5,000 or greater, the business that processed your bet might withhold up to 31% of the proceeds for federal income tax, according to the IRS.

This will be indicated in Box 4 of your W-2G.

For that reason, experts recommend keeping a good record of your gambling wins and losses throughout the year.

Once you have your records together, you'll need to report your winnings as "gambling income" on line 8 of your Form 1040, Schedule 1, which is used to report types of income not listed on the primary 1040 tax form.
